Rapidly-healing bilateral distal tibia fractures in a 10-month-old child. We report on a 10-month-old child with bilateral distal tibia fractures that required open reduction of the distal tibiae and Kirschner wire fixation. The fracture healed spontaneously in 2 weeks without any evidence of infection, malunion, or neurovascular injury. This report is the first to document the spontaneous healing of bilateral tibia fractures in a child less than 1 year old. This child probably had a new tibial fracture as part of the natural healing process, without the need for any orthopedic fixation.Tuesday, March 19, 2014 The OLD CABINET-25301: LYNAUX 1982 This is the Youtube link, if you prefer to see the image: The idea of a multi-volume set of Lang's novels came up with a few other fans of Lang's work, notably in a thread that started on the site longago-home-of-rifftide (RIP). It was decided that any such Lang collection should be non-standard in one way or another. There should be no real "big list" of Lang's canon novels, no sequential numbering of the novels either, although there should be some sort of collection that was meant to be read in order. The choice of books was left to me (Ben) and I chose Lang's "early" work. This was the "room" where everything happened. It was renamed to the "O.C. Lang Cabinet" around 1990, and stayed that way until 2012. In 2012 the name was changed back to its original name. Most of the contents were Lang's earliest work, up until LADY-CRIMSON-BELL. That is, Lang's first published novel, with the exception of TYPEWRITER-BOOKS (1899), which was one of the last novels Lang wrote before SYMPTOMS (1911). The original plan for this project was that the set would be published as a small run of copies, and simply thrown away once those runs were sold out. That never happened. I'm glad I kept one copy, as even after all this time, I still enjoy looking through it. The extant copies have bits of paper glued on
